Translation Training Programs in Jordan: A Proposed Model

Rajai Rashead AL-Khanji

University of Jordan, Amman

Abstract

The major aims of my presentation are first, to explain the major drawbacks of translation programs at Jordanian universities, and secondly, to offer some solutions to deal with their weaknesses through a proposed model by calling for the need to exert more efforts in bridging the gap between world academia and the job market. The model is meant to establish norms of translation competence based on some criteria that take into consideration various factors such as proficiency, knowledge, syllabus design...etc.